

MAJOR ORCHESTRAL LIBRARIANS' ASSOCIATION 29TH ANNUAL CONFERENCE

HENRY WOOD HALL, LONDON 13TH - 16TH MAY, 2011

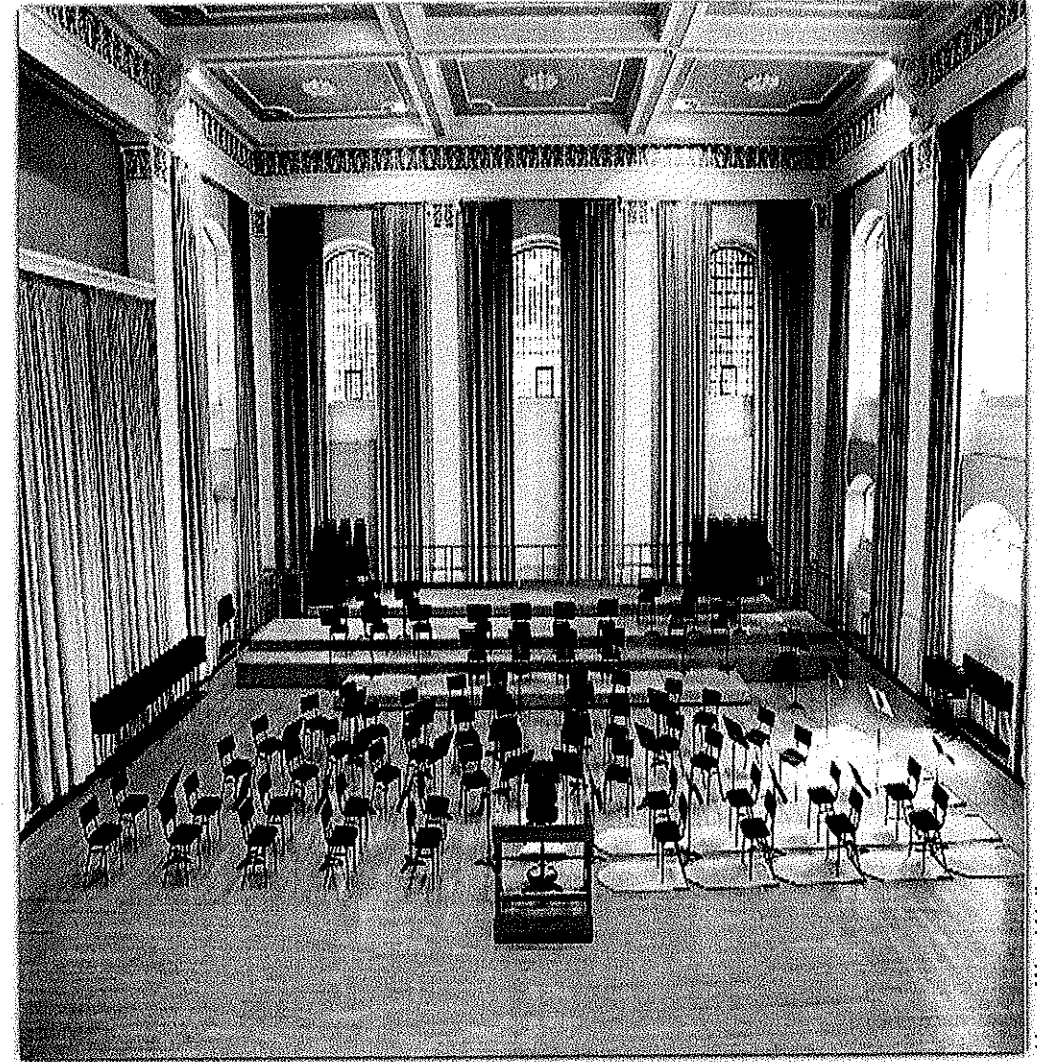

The BBC Symphony Orchestra, in association with the British MOLA Orchestras, is delighted to present the 2011 MOLA conference in London, thus marking the second occasion the conference has been hosted in a European city.

We have been fortunate to secure for the conference venue the picturesque Henry Wood Hall. This historically significant building, as the city's premier rehearsal and recording studio has been at the heart of British classical music for many years and is situated in the beautiful conservation area of Trinity Church Square.

Planned seminars and activities include:

Discussions featuring prominent British Composers
Representatives from the Major Publishers: Q & A sessions Visits to the British Library; the Royal Opera House and a BBCSO Barbican Concert

And, of course, the opportunity to explore London, one of the world's most richly historic, cultural and vibrant cities.
